Effect of Big Ranches.

The Oroville Register says:

The Oroville Register says:

The rich farming regions on the western side of this county are at a standstill, if not going backward in the number of school children. Dockery district, with about 30 square miles of as rich farming land as can be found in California, has but 48 children. Experienced farmers elaim that the finest farming lands in Butte are about Dayton, yet white the district methods of the county in the district, lying along the west bank of Feather river, and covering about 12 square miles, yet there are only its school children in the district. The lands embraced in Pratt school district have long been famous for their big crops, but it realing children they seem a failure, for while the district is a little over 30 miles square, there are but 23 school children. Pratt school children upper end of this county, has a rich territory and would support many families in comfort, but there are only 18 school children for the 24 miles of area. Swan district includes 16 square miles of rich, black lands, but there are only 12 children, and so the district organization had to be given up. If we take the district so find a richer and more fertile tract of country in the United States, yet while they emb ace an area of 140 square miles, they only number 188 school children.

The above applies with equal

The above applies with equal force to Nevada, and the Susanville Advocate hits the nail on the head in the following:

"This is the very state of affairs which has been the curse of the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys for the last thirty years. Haggin and Carr with their million acres, and Miller and Lux with another million, have done more to keep back the prosperity and population of the great valleys of California than any other drawback. There are thousands of ranchers in the San Joaquin to-day holding a thousand acres and upward, and trying to farm it, staggering along under a load of debt, if they had started on 160 acres and farmed it well."

of no good to a State, but what Nevada most needs is population, and the sooner we get new blood into our veins the better off we will be. The Board of Trade is making an effort to stimulate immigration, and if they succeed, the land will be divided up so that the State will support twenty times its present population.

A PUBLIC meeting has been called for Monday night to devise ways and means for closing the gates of the Tahoe dam. This is as it should be, for the water of the lake is now running to waste and doing no good to any one. It would be better by far for this Diamond : Spectacles community to stand between the Donner Boom Co. and the people about the lake, and take upon themselves the responsibility that S. J. HODGKINSON'S may arise from the closing of the gates. The past winter has been one in fifteen or twenty and it may be years before the opportunity will be offered to fill the lake again and it should be taken advantage of. The lake can be raised forty inches higher than it is now and keep way inside of the meandered line. Do not neglect this thing, but turn out and try to help yourselves and the community at large by having them closed at once.

A Pioneer's Experience With Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I am a ploneer in this county, having been here 30 years. Four years ago my little son Ellery became blood-poisoned by impure virus in vaccination. His arm swelled terribly, essuaing great agony; physicians said the arm must be surputated, and even then his recovery would be doubtful. One day I read about a blood purifier, new to me, and was surplied to learn that it was prepared by C. L. Hood, with whom I used to go to school in Chelses, Vt. I decided to have my boy try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and was much gratified when it seemed to help him. He continued to grow better as we gave him the Sarsapar illa, and having used 8 bottles is now entirely cured. As Hood's Sarsaparilla has accomplished such wonderful results, I recommend it all I possibly can." JEROME M. SLEEPER, Upper Lake, Lake Co., Cal.

CATARRH.

Catarrhal Deafness-Hay Fever A New Home Treatment.

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result of this discovery is that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever are permanently cured in from one to three simple applications under at home by the patient once in two

A Neces-ity of Health.

It is a prime negessity of health that the action of the bowels should be kept regular. But the way to overcome a temporary fit of constipation, or to remedy chronic costiveness, is not to deluge the stomach and drench the bowels with purgatives of violent and painful action. The happy medium between an inoperative and violent cathartic is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which acts just sufficiently upon the bowels to relax them, without pain, and which being a wholesome tonic, as well as *perient, has the effect of strengthening both them and the stomach, and promoting the well-being of the whole internal economy. The removal of bile from the blood, increased activity of the liver, usually dormantin cases of costiveness, and sound digestion follows the use of this beneficent medicine, as thoroughly and genial in its effects as it is safe and pure in composition. Rheumatism, fever and ague, kidney trables and debility are also remedied by it.

On a recent visit to Iowa, Mr. K Dalton of Luray, Russell Co., Kansas, called at the labroratory of Chamber lain & Co., Des Moins, to show them his six year old boy, whose life hasbeen saved by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy; it having cured him of a very severe attack of croup. Mr. Dalton is certain that it saved his hov? Dalton is certain that its aved his boy's life and is enthusiatsic in his praise of the Remedy. He says it has an excellent reputation in his vicinity; that farmers come fifteen miles to his store for it and that many of them, like himself, are poser without it in like hinself, are never without it in their homes. transition from long, lingering and painful sickness to robust health marks an epoch in the life of the individual. Such a remarkable event is treasured in the mem bry and the agency whereby the good health has been attained is gratefully blessed ence it is that so much is heard in praise of Electric Bitters. THE CHILDREN'S NIGHT.

The Fancy Dress Ball a Great

The chil dren's fancy dress ball given by Frank Riegelhuth, the dancing teacher, last night, was an immense success. About fifty bright little members of the rising generation participated, and it made one feel young again to witness the grand march and watch the little ones in the heel-and-toe polka and mazy waltz.

The grand march was led by Harry Baker, dressed as a page, and Maud Bradley, as Rosebud. They led the march with a dignity and grace and won a storm of applanse.

Among the neatest representations was little Earl Bigelow dressed as George Washington, and he looked every inch as good as G. W. ever did and sustained the character with a dignity far beyond his years. Kittie Nevada Ryland represented Nevada, and, as she poured forth her wealth of silver bricks to the specta-tors, it reminded one of the bonanza days. She is a sweet little thing, and no better selection could have been made to represent the "Battle Born.'

Roy Sunderland was good as a dude.

Little Irene Baker was a very lively bat, while her brother Cleve did some ground and lofty tumbling as a clown. Clara Martin looked decidedly ancient as Martha Washington and sus-tained the character well-indeed per-But the GAZETTE has not the space

NECK BROKEN.

Fatal Runaway Accident, in Which a Man Loses His Life.

This morning about 3 o'clock, as Ben Yoeman and Miss Brown were returning to Brown's Station, on the Virginia road, from a party held at G. R. Holcomb's, his team became unmanageable and ran away, throwing them out of the wagon and breaking Mr. Yoemen's neck. Death was in-stantaneous. The lady was not in-jured at all. The remains were taken to Mrs. Brown's, where deceased had been employed for a number of years. An inquest was held this afternoon.

The Courier says a special meeting of the Directors of the Nye County Board of Trade was held in the Courthouse, Belmont, on the 30th ultimo, the object of the meeting being to memorialize Congress for the free and unlimited coinage of silver. It was removed and seconded that the memorial presented by General Agent George Nicholl be adopted and forwarded to the Congress of the United States of America. The motion was carried.

Last fall a horse breeder from Utah came here and disposed of several horses for $2,500 apiece. Horse and cattle breeders from California can always make a good sale of stock here. Nevada investors are wild to purchase. but when equally good stock, raised and acclimated, is offered, they turn up their noses. Mr. Sweeny has spent thousands of dollars in his efforts to improve the horses of Nevada, and brought the finest trotting stallion on the coast to Carson, but his efforts have met with poor appreciation and still poorer financial reward. The Appeal advises Mr. Sweeny to take his horses to California, keep them there a few years, and then bring them up here as California horses if he wishes to realize handsomely on his

EFFECTS OF COFFEE

On Microbes Which Cause Different Diseases. Dr. Luderitz has recently made a number of observations on the destructive power of coffee upon various microbes. He found that the organisms all died in a longer or shorter period-e. g., in one series of experiments anthrax bacilli were destroyed in three hours, anthrax spores in four weeks, cholera bacilli in four hours, and the streptococcus of erysipelas in one day. It was, however, remarkable that good coffee and bad coffee produced precisely similar effects. He have suggested, the antiseptic effect of coffee does not depend on the caffeine it contains, but on the empyreumatic oils developed by roasting.

USEFUL INFORMATION.

Tilbury Fox, M. D., the eminent medical writer, in his work "Skin Diseases," thus accounts for the pimples so common to the face and neck. Eating too rich or too greasy food, or too hearty eating while the excretory organs are sluggish, causes in most people indigestion or a dyspepsial condition, which causes the blood to move aluggiably, and enfeebles the pores. The result is, that the exuding secretions block in the pores, which inflame, each distinct inflammation being a pimple. Dr. Fox therefore does not prescribe "blood purifiers" so called, but a dyspepsia cure" to be taken, to use his own words "till the dyspepsial symptoms have disappeared." The old idea was, that face ruptions were caused by a "humor in the blood," for which they treate: the blood, giving the mineral, potash. Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla follows the modern ideas of Dr. Sarsaparilla follows the modern representatives at the stomach and digestive organs. The reason is apparent why it cures dyspersia and indigestion, and the pimples and sia and indigestion, and the pimples skin cruptions which result therefrom why sarsaparillas that use minerals fatt

The Southern Pacific Company Sends Their Bridge-Building Crew to Lovelock to Repair Hon. P. N. Marker's Plume.

The flume of Hon. P. N. Market across the Humboldt river at Lovelock was blown down during a recent gale, which deprived many farmers of water. It was necessary to rebuild it at the earliest possible moment, and to get carpenters and lumber on the ground would take several weeks. Mr. Marker, desiring to get the work done at the least expense and in the shortest possible time, interviewed the officers at that place. H. Leter has received a fine stock of of the Board of Trade, and requested spring and summer tailoring goods. them to give him a letter to Mr. Towne, setting forth the facts, and asking that the bridge-building crew of the Southern Pacific Company be sent there to build the flume. The following letter was given to Mr Marker, and he presented it to Mr. Towne, who immediately gave orders to have the crew sent out to rebuild it at the lowest possible cost. They are now there at work, and the flume will result in delays which will cause great loss to that community.

In view of these facts, the State Board of Trade respectfully ask that, if possi-ble, you give orders that your men pro-ceed immediately to rebuild the works as soon as it can be done at the lowest possi-ble price which will not entail a money loss on the company.

KNOWLEDGE IS POWER.

Nowadays Education Stands at the Head of All Required Gifts. In olden times education was not valued as it is now. It was realized that an educated man was in some sense superior to ignorant people, but he was regarded as effeminate for wasting his time in poring over musty parchments and missals, and otherwise looked upon pretty much as people nowadays re-gard a man trying to discover perpetual motion.

Nowadays, says Golden Days, education has been exalted to its proper place, at the head of all acquired gifts.

An uneducated adult is an object of pity, and frequently of contempt, and the very first step a boy makes toward future greatness is to acquire an educa-

He must be a stupid boy, indeed, who does not value an education and realize that he can not become great without it. It is true that there are rich men who are illiterate, but these are accidents of fortune. They may have had money left to them, may have discovered a mine, or may have hoarded up money like a miser. But these are exceptions -the rule is that education is the only

But then arises the question—what constitutes an education? The Wabash railway has issued a positive order that no boy shall be employed in any of its shops or other departments, for the purpose of learning any trade or skilled work, unless he brings a certificate from his instructors stating that he has completed his studies up to the second class of the grammar school. This would include a knowledge of arithmetic up to mensuration, reading, writing, spelling, elementary geography and grammar, some history, etymology and natural history, and may be taken as a fair standard of a common-school edu-

If a boy has the means and can afford the time, he should not stop here. He should go through the high school and college, and take special courses in engineering-civil, mining or electricalchemistry, physics, or any one or more of the numerous useful branches now open to bright, energetic boys. But if he must stop at a common-school education, or even if he goes through college, he must not stop learning if he wishes to become great.

Text-books do not contain all the information with which boys should acquaint themselves. They are but the foundation stones of knowledge. A boy should study current events, the history of the world which is always happening. Here is where books, magazines and newspapers have their greatest value. ust read books of travel if he would know about the geography of the world; as, for instance, Stanley's description of Africa in the light of recent discovery.

Almost every day the bright boy may read of some new discovery in science, history, botany or chemistry, and add to his education by just that much. The knowledge thus acquired is always a source of pleasure and frequently of profit. And it is a peculiarity of learning that the more you study the easier it is to study.

The man who has learned two lancages can more easily learn a third; one study acts as a prop to another, and so it is in every branch. The civil en-gineer could easily master electrical engineering, and the boy who reads history understandingly imbibes geography with scarcely an effort.

In the case above quoted the railway company has found that boys who have completed the English branches of study learn skilled work more easily than those who have not.

The reason is quite apparent. Skilled work requires the exercise of the reasoning powers; the worker must understand the why and wherefore of his work; he is not a mere machine set going. A boy with an education will think while he works; he will study and contrive the very best way of doing any thing; his brain has been drilled to reason and it does reason.

Such a boy is twice as valuable to his employer as an unthinking, ignorant boy, however obedient and willing he may be, and the employer is bound to appreciate his services at their proper orth. Such a boy is bound to rise out of the every-day rut; he will master his trade in half the time an ignorant lad would consume.

These are prizes worth striving for, and they are within the reach of any boy of ordinary ability who will study with diligence after he leaves school. If he "doesn't bother with learning any thing now," as some boys are fond of boasting, the chances are that he will stand all his life at the foot of the ladder; if he wishes to climb he must study, and before he has grown out of young manhood he will be glad to admit that 'knowledge is power.'

AN ECCENTRIC MAYOR. His Unique Way of Dealing Out Justice to Offenders.

There are a dozen eccentric characters about the old capital worthy of mention, says a Milledgeville correspondent of the Atlanta Constitution, but a short allusion to one who has passed across the river of death will suffice for the present. The gentleman referred to was at one time mayor of Milledgeville, and & more upright man never lived. His chief characteristic, the one that impressed itself most forcibly upon those with whom he dealt, was his most total disregard for law or precedent and his firm adherence to right and justice from his own views. He believed murder and theft were a crime and should be punished. He believed that drunkenness and disorderly conduct were a crime worthy of equal punishment. His motto, incorporated in his address to the council, was that "ninety-nine innocent men should be punished before one guilty one should escape," and the rigidity of his reign impressed those brought before him with the fact that he was The stated convocations of Reno Chapter No. 7, R. Well, I see you have taken the law in your own hands, but there are some few amendments that you have creflooked that I want to read. Please let me have your attention for just a min-ute. But, before going further, let me tell you not to think that the moderation of this punishment is due to your chicanery; it is because of my benevolent heart.' This speech was followed by a fine that usually paralyzed the mercy-expecting prisoner. When there was a slight variation in the testimony, or when there was any question as to the guilt of a party, witnesses and all were fined, on the ground that the "guilty should not go unpunished." In a case of fighting, all parties were punished and the belligerents with equal severity, no matter who was at fault, "for it took two to make a quarrel." In those days-twenty years ago-Milledgeville was regarded as one of the most disorderly towns in the country. Drunkenness and fighting were common occurrences, and the laxity in enforcing the laws gave a stimulus to the state of affairs that was not retarded until such a reign was given the city. It is hardly necessary to state that the severe ruling of Milledgeville's eccentric chief executive for four years had the desired effect, and when he went "to join the caravan which moves to the mysterious realm," he left a city of law and order for his monument.

A SENSIBLE GIRL.

Sorry to Accept Flowers from Her Lover Because They Cost So Much.

"Oh! I wish he wouldn't!" said a dear girl to a New York Evening Sun reporter, as she opened the box and for one long moment of pure delight drank in the exquisite beauty and perfume of the great cluster of velvety "jacks." "They're lovely, and so is he, but I do wish he wouldn't!" she repeated as she lifted out the great bunch and thrust them with the most elaborate and artistic carelessness into a great cutglass rose bowl.

"Why shouldn't he if he wants to?"

asked her listener. She flushed a little, but answered bravely: "Because he can't afford it. You see," she went on heavily, "I know the dear fellow cares for me-know it just as well as if he had told me so, and Iwell. I wouldn't feel distressed over this if - You see, young men are so foolish about these things. A flower seems to them the very apotheosis of a gift to a girl, and so it would be if we lived in Arcady and roses were to be had for the plucking. But we don't; we live in New York, where every bud costs a big, round dollar, and the poetry of flower giving resolves itself into the decided prose of earning the dollar to pay for them. I don't know Tom's salary, of course, but I know it isn't $10,000 a year, and here's $25 worth of jacks, I am sure. If young men only knew it, sometimes a girl, if she has any sense at all and any proper appreciation of how money is earned in this world, is really more distressed than gratified when he thinks he is making her happiest. Wouldn't she be a selfish girl if she could be perfectly happy or even coolly complacent over a gift that will last her a few hours, but that she knows will cost the poor fellow who sent it half his week's salary to pay for."

JEST AND JOLLITY.

THERE is no full stop to the furnace in cold weather. It always requires the THE enterprising and scientific chicken is hunting around for an average to lay eggs on. "Love levels all things." Perhaps so: but it has been noted that its tendency is not to make the head level. THEY tax all bachelors in Wyoming $2.50. Even at this low price there is little competition at the tax sales. House cleaning has begun and Recording Angel has to work overtime to keep tab on masculine profanity. THE epidemic is said to be disappearing. In a few months McGrippe and LaGinty will be as seldom mentioned as the Elixir of Life.

"AFTER all," said a realist the other day in speaking of harrowing stories, "the most grewsome plots are to be found in cemeteries." "How much older is your elder sister than you?" was asked of a bud of sixteen. "I don't know, for since I have grown up she loses a year annually and expect we shall be twins before long."

THERE is in Indiana a teacher who compels each one of his pupils to hand in an original poem each week. The exercise will not be without value if it teaches the children to dislike verse-making. THE Emperor of Germany has been dissuaded from publishing the poetry he wrote when he was a very young man. And consequently the world will never know what he used to think about a summer evening, and the stars, and the glad springtime and other pretty things that interest very young poets.

THE discovery of gold in a recent meteoric stone suggests some very interesting thoughts. It is commonly believed that meteors are fragments of other worlds accidentally thrown outside their usual orbit into that of the earth. The question is whether this gold where it originated was the gause of as much strife and contention as it has for ages been on this planet. A young man, recently married, suggested to his wife that they should argue some question frankly and fully every morning, in order to learn more of each other. The first question hap-pened to be: "Whether a woman could dress on seventy-five dollars a year?" and he took the affirmative; and when last seen he had climbed anto a hay-loft and was pulling a ladder up after him.

Some people are of opinion that a man shouldn't take his wife on a wedding tour to Niagara or any of those sublime looking places. She is generally so apt to be impressed by them that he is small in comparison; and if there is ever a period when a wife is likely to consider that her worse half amounts to something it is the week or two following the wedding. The custom of these journeys ought to be called in for repairs. Without a Smoke-Stack, A locomotive on the Atlantic & Pacific railroad was run from Coolidge to Albuquerque, N. M., a few days ago vithout a smoke-stack, a barrel being substituted. The engineer says all he needs to pull a train is a steam chest, a pair of driving wheels and a Areman ming Endless Variety in Shape, Color and Fabric.

It would almost appear that the art of the designer had reached its limit in the direction of parasols when one is conducted through the manufacturer's establishment and notes the seemingly endless variety in shape, color and fabric. To begin with, some of the socalled "shades," which are to transparent as to merely modify the sun's rays, have quite missed their ostensible purpose, and thus afford the satirists another opportunity for a fling at the follies of fashion. Foremost among the novelties is the "Arched Maureeque." Its shape is a very graceful one, the top being rather flat and the ribanslightly curved at the end, while the material is arched up between, with a handsome fringe pendent from the edge. Fringe this season plays as important a part in parasols as in dress trimmings. The material is put on the entoneas plain if in heavy silk, but when light fabrics are chosen they are shirred. Striped "Royale," plain Indias, and surahs in rich colors, point d'esprit and embroidered nets are among the materials used for this parasol. Those made of the embroidered nets are the very daintiest trifles imaginable. They are shirred over India silk or surah and bordered with a quill fringe of the same color, which is interspersed with flower-sprays corresponding with the predominating color in the embroidery. For instance black and yellow will have thutteren sprays in the fringe and there are rose buds, marguerites and violets arranged in like manner.

The "Basket Ribbon" parasol has a cover adjusted to the frame, and in one piece, being composed entirely of riboons, interlaced and finished on the edge with loops of the ribben like a fringe. The effect is rich in solid black or white, but is equally handsome in harmonious combinations, such as two shades of heliotrope, two shades of gray. Nile green and myrtle; in fact, any o the popular shades of the season.

The "Jockey" parasol is one of the most decided novelties. It is a twelverib parasol, having four narrow gores separated from each other by two wider ones, producing a square effect which is emphasized by using for the narrow gores a material that in color or quality is a contrast to the rest of the parasol As, for instance, narrow gores of white gray, cardinal or primrose point d'espri are placed in contrast to gathered black figured net, or a parasol of any of the leading costume colors is offset by narrow gores of plaids, which are now so Mourning parasols are quite as varied in design as those of colors. The newest are made of rows of crepe lisse ruching over India silk or surah, or in the "Jockey" shape, when the gores of crape alternate with gros-grain or shirred Brussels net. In the coaching style they are made in tricotin, striped "Royale," or figured India silk, with black handles and trimmings.

The little folks are not forgotten either in the way of parasols, and enough of the new designs are repeated in miniature to gladden the hearts of all the little maids in the land .- Ella Starr, in Frank Leslie's Weekly.
